January/2018	Other	1. Product categories: Does the NSC compare what the accreditation agency submits vs. what the provider submits. If a discrepancy exists, what does the NSC do?	Yes. Supplier Standard 22 ensures the NSC verifies what a supplier submits as an offered service or product to beneficiaries is properly accredited. If a discrepancy is discovered, i.e. the supplier has a product or service on file or on the application that is not accredited according to the accreditation agency, the supplier will be contacted about the discrepancy. The NSC will only load as a product and service what is received from the accreditation agency. If a supplier submits an enrollment with a product or service they are accredited for and the accreditation agency has not informed the NSC we are unable to update your enrollment with that information. For this reason we contact the supplier to inform them of the issue. If the supplier is indeed accredited for that product or service they will need to contact the accreditation agency and have them submit that updated information to the NSC so the enrollment can be updated properly. If that product or service is not an accredited product or service the item will not be added as part of the enrollment, the analyst may request the supplier submit a corrected section 3D.
		i. Follow-up: Asked for clarification on the response: when NSC gets information from Accreditation and there is a discrepancy, is it pro or pre-actively addressed?	When the NSC puts the information in, if anything in the billing report doesn't match up with accreditation, the supplier will be contacted – either by the analyst or site inspector will bring it up.
